

Change Registered Officer for a non-Parliamentary party

Completing this form

- This form should be used by a registered non-Parliamentary political party to notify a change of registered officer.
- A non-Parliamentary party is a party which does not have any members in the Australian Parliament.
- Further information is provided in the Guide for maintaining party registration available at www.aec.gov.au.
- The information requested on this form is collected under the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918.
- The name and street address of the registered officer are made public on the AEC's website. A registered officer might prefer to give the party office street address rather than their residential address.

Name of political party

If a request to appoint a new registered officer is not signed by the current registered officer, the AEC must write to that person giving them 7 days to advise any reason why the new appointment should not be made.

Role of the registered officer

A registered officer can nominate the party's endorsed candidates in a federal election and appoint deputy registered officers to do the same. The AEC sends all formal correspondence about the registration of the party to the registered officer.

An appointment takes a few days to be available to AEC Returning Officers throughout Australia, so any new appointment form should be lodged with the AEC well before the close of nominations in an election.

Note: An individual cannot hold the position of registered officer or deputy registered officer, for more than one federally registered political party.

You must also complete the following two pages of this form

Note: It is a requirement under Part XI of the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 that a street address for the registered officer is published on the AEC website in the Register of Political Parties. The street address does not have to be the registered officer’s residential address and can be an alternate street address such as the party’s office street address.

I acknowledge that the street address listed above will be published on the AEC’s website.

Applicant details

This application must be made by 3 members of the party (preferably office-holders), each of whom is on the Commonwealth Electoral Roll. Applicants must provide their capacity (secretary, party member) in applying.

We hereby apply for the amendments as detailed above to be effected to the Register of Political Parties.
