Comments on Objection of Ned O. Strange

I write to very briefly disagree with the position articulated by the Australian Labour Party on page 4 of their Objection 412. A third round is required after any significant changes, and the word “significantly” should always be interpreted liberally, in order to incorporate the democratic process. The engagement with this Victorian Redistribution has been record, and it would be a shame were the Commission to significantly change boundaries without soliciting further engagement.

Respectfully Submitted
