I write as leader of the St. Mary's Catholic Parish in Colac. Our boundaries go half way to Winchelsea, to north of Cressy, west into the Stoney Rises and south bordering to Apollo Bay. As leader of this community for 9 years it is obvious that Colac is very closely associated with greater Geelong. I experience this is basic family life and relationships, with Health Care and in sporting and social life. As one also engaged with support to refugee and asylum seekers over these years it is with Geelong that contacts have been established and supported.

I will not go into the negatives for the positives to have Colac-Otway Shire to be a single entity and to remain as part of the Corangamite electorate are so,so obvious.
