Dear Sir/Madam,

I wish to object to the planned redistribution of the electorate currently known as Corangamite to the proposed Cox.

My main concerns are for the loss of jobs at the local Colac Electoral Office. I believe the Colac Office is planned to be closed if this goes ahead.

My daughter, Louisa, is one of those who will lose her job. This is wrong!

I understand that we will no longer have an Electoral Office in Colac. Is the government going to pay our fuel bills if we need to visit an electoral office in Warrnambool? I think not!

Please reconsider for the sake of all affected including those with disabilities who may need help with forms, changes of address and other concerns that the Colac Electoral Office currently services.

My daughter enjoys her work and has been employed there for the past 3 years during elections. I'd like to see her keep this position as she has physical disabilities that restrict the type of work she can do.

Why try to fix what isn't broken?

I trust my objections will be taken seriously.

Sincerely

Angie M Cooper
