I have become aware that the AEC will be naming new electorates in Australia. As only 11% of electorates are named after women, and women as we know are at least 50% of the population, I suggest that this naming requirement provides the perfect opportunity to begin to 'right the balance'. I propose the seat of 'Ryan' be named after the late senator Susan Ryan. That's a start and there are so many more great Australian women who should be honoured in the same way that men have been up until this point.
