NSW Federal Redistribution - OBJECTION

Abolition of North Sydney

1. The electorate of North Sydney is at a critical mass in numbers of electors, and increasing, and would be seriously diluted by absorption into another electorate.
2. The electorate of North Sydney has a diverse and heterogeneous mix of cultures and racial backgrounds, an identity that would be lost in another electorate.
3. The electorate demonstrated at the last federal election that they wished for a candidate who ably represents the electorate's varied interests. Such representation of community would be lost in absorption into a wider and different electorate.
4. There is room to marginally increase the North Sydney electorate, if change is required. Absorbing a portion of the Bennelong, or better, the Warringah electorate, is more in keeping with the electorate's identity and heterogeneity.
