Good afternoon

Once again the AEC has made a ridiculous boundary decision with the proposed Bullwinkel Electorate in Western Australia. You have created an electorate that ranges from Gidgegannup/Mundaring/Kalamunda/ Roleystone/Parts of Gosnells and parts of Armadale. This spans many local government areas, that have little in common in the day to day lives of the voters. The only reason I can see that they are grouped together is that they span the Darling Range on the outskirts of Perth. How are the boundary decisions made? Shouldn't the voters be able to judge the candidates on issues that are relevant to them. It seems that little of no thought has been put into this boundary, bar the fact that the blue line looks good on paper.
